Scott Price guides construction clients through the many legal issues particular to the industry, providing legal advice and representation on a wide variety of construction matters, including complex multi-party proceedings.

He specializes in the review and drafting of construction related contracts from small residential to larger developments and multimillion-dollar factories.

Keeping abreast of legal developments, he ensures his clients' construction contracts are in line with the continuous legislative changes and reflect the most current state of the industry.

With the aim to establish long-term relationships, Scott is always available to his clients to give concise input and advice on all aspects of their business requirements, from drafting and reviewing of construction contracts, to any issues that may arise up to the completion of a project.

Clients regularly seek his practical and relevant advice in the areas of liens, breach of trust, bonds, contract disputes and the resolution of all types of construction disputes.

Scott represents owners, developers, contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, and bonding companies. He has appeared at all levels of court and various tribunals and regularly represents clients in arbitrations and mediations. Not afraid to take on any issue, his proactive approach has secured many successful outcomes using alternative dispute resolution mechanisms.

As a commercial litigator, Scott represents businesses, sole proprietors and individuals, and acts as an estate litigator for individuals and families. He also assists First Nation clients with contracts and construction litigation.
